most every house mourning drapery was hung; the bells of the churches tolled for some hours. From the surrounding country and from New York and other cities, thousands of people as-sembled in and about the church, where the sembled in and about the church, where the funeral services took place. A procession, more than a mile in length, followed the remains of the deceased to the grave, where, besides many of the most distinguished men of New York City, were nearly all the Episcopal clergy, including the Provisional Bishop of the Diocese. The New York Common Council and the Trustees of the Astor Library were present; and the Historical Society was well represented. The services in the church and at the grave were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Creighton, paster of the church at Tarrytown, of which Mr. Irving was a member.

we condense such particulars of the funeral as we deem of interest:

The remains were on Thursday morning, for the first time, placed in the coffin, and were lying in the north-west parlor of the quaintly-gabled cettage, familiar to those who have loved to read of Irving. To all was granted a long, last look at the precious dust, ere it left forever the spot where his years were so ripe and lustrous. Very few were present, except the immediate family connections, it being understood that no services were to be held at the house.

The body was robed in a plain black suit with white cravat and collar, and as the light struck the features of the deceased, it seemed almost as if he were sleeping—so calm and smooth had the touch of death left them. The face was thinner than we had seen it, but there was the same repose, and the same imaginative, noble brow. At the left of the coffin hung the celebrated portrait by Jarvis; by its side were the center-table—as he left it, covered with books—and his favorite chair, standing in the position where he occupied it last. It seemed as if the grief of the bereaved ones was tempered even there and then by the thought of his well rounded life, and the

at the euthaussy that was his lot.

At about 12 M. the family procession left Sunnyside, with the body, winding through the lovely grounds to the east, and then two miles north, over a road lined with beautiful trees and mansions, to the village of Tarry-

THE FUNERAL PROCESSION .- About 2 P. M. the procession was formed to convey the remains to their last resting-place. It moved in the following order: 1st. The Clergy; 2d. Pall-bearers; 3d. The Hearse; 4th. Relatives and invited guests; 5th. The Common Council of the City of New York, 5th. Scholars. cil of the City of New York; 6th. Scholars of the Irving Institute, to the number of about one hundred, on foot; 7th. Citizens in general. The procession itself was about one-quarter of a mile in length, and many hundreds, beside, had already gethered in the Cometery prior to its arrival. Moving still northward, with the silvery Hudson and the nestling village ever in view, it passed the Andre Monument on the left, and so on for a mile, to the lovely hill where the Tarrytown Cemetery is located. The streets through which it moved were draped with mourning, as, indeed, were the shops and dwellings throughout the place; the flags at the river side were at half-mast; the church-bells tolling, and all business ap-peared to be suspended for the day.

MOUNT PLEASANT CENSTERY .- This burying ground is romantically located on a hill over-looking the famous "Sleepy Hollow," where the bridge of the "Headless Horseman" is now inhabiting Sebastopol, and expresses an still pointed out. Near the entrance is the old Dutch Church alluded to by Mr. Irving in his works. It was erected in 1899, by "Fred. Phillipse and Catherine Van Courtlandt, his wife," so says the ancient tablet. The lot of the Irving family has a south elevation on the south-west side of the ground, and commands the loveliest view of the Hudson anywhere obtainable. In it are already deposited the ashes of William Irving and wife—the parents of Washington; his brothers, Peter and William, and the wife of the latter, and the wife and three children of General Eb. Irving, the

THE BEREAVED FAMILY .- General Ebenezer Irving, the surviving brother of the deceased, is eighty-six years old, and was consequently Washington's senior by ten years. He feels keenly the shock of his brother's death, having thought that, in the course of nature, his own summons would have been the first. His three unmarried daughters, Catharine, Julia and Mary, are the nieces who have kept house for the deceased, and tenderly cherished and lightened his declining age. Another daugh-ter, Sarah, is the wife of William Grinnell, Esq., of Havana, N. Y. His son, the Rev. Pierre M. Irving, of Brighton, Staten Island, was the last person to whom Mr. Irving spoke before his death. The Rev. Theodore Irving, also of Staten Island, is another son—and there are two others whose names we did not obtain. Pierre P. Irving, Esq., nephew of the deceased by an older brother, and brother of Mrs. Moses H. Grinnell, forms one of the have seen much of Mr. Irving, for some time past, say that he retained to the last his erectness of posture and noble bearing. A few days before his death, while suffering painfully from the asthmatic attack which hastened it, he stooped a very little only, as if from weak-ness in the chest. His death was wrongly reported as having taken place at 8 o'clock on Monday evening. He conversed with his usual spirits, and mingled in the family amusements, until about 10 o'clock, when he rose to retire, and had proceeded as far as his bed-chamber, on the second story, before he fell in death.

WASSINGTON IRVING AS A CITIZEN .- Mr. Ir. ving could well abide the judgment of his fel-low-townsmen. Not alone the wealthy, wellread residents—who have so enhanced the na-tural beauties of the vicinity of Sunnyside by their exquisite summer haunts, and revered and loved him with an intellectual sympathy—but the humble villagers and farmers, to whom he was so well known, were among the truest mourners that followed him to his

The Widow of Balzac Married.—The widow of Balzac is married to Gigoux, the painter and expert of the Louvre. The condition of the marriage is singular enough. The lady is to retain the name of Balzac, even in singing legal documents, and to be called in her domestic circle by no other name than that of her first husband, from whose glory

A GOLDEN WEDDING IN MASSACHUSETTS.—
The Boston Post contains an account of a golden gathering which took place in the village of Baston on the 14th inst. The occasion was the sighty-third birth-day of Moses C. Dunbar, and the fiftieth anniversary of his wedding.
His two sons, Col. Peter and T. J. Dunbar, together with their wives, sons and daughters, and so on in the line of relationship to the great-great-great grandsons and daughters, to the number of about sixty, surprised the aged couple by approaching their dwelling in squads of about ten each, from different directions and at different periods of time—each group leaded with the good things of this life.

ANOTHER LADY GAY SPANKER .- Ludy Stamford, who, it seems, considers hereelf, and with every reason, too, a first-rate steeple-chaser, every reason, too, a first-rate steeple-chaser, finding few can surpass her daring, or defeat her in a long run, has, (says the Court Circular,) with the chivalric mettle of more primitive days, challenged another lady, renowned for her cross-country daring, and who presumes herself a mighty huntress before her liege lord, to an equestrian tournament across a rather difficult country for £500 a side. The challenge has been, we believe, accepted, and the trial between the fair oppoponents will come off shortly. The scene of ponents will come off shortly. The scene of this interesting wager is in the county of

with the good things of this life.

Rev. Henry A. Wise, Jr.—An exchange says of this young clergyman, second son of the Governor of Virginia: "He has already taken a high stand among the pulpit orators of his age. His sermons (which are delivered without notes. without notes, or at least any reference to them) are remarkable for their terseness of atyle, and chaste and fervid eloquence—set off by a face of unmistakable intellectuality, a voice at once deep, soft, and impassioned, and, a fine delivery. Mr. Wise is now the pastor in charge of the Church of the Savior in West Philadelphia."

DRUNKENNESS IN AUSTRALIA.-The author of Southern Lights and Shadows says: "My own profession in Australia sfords many awful instances of the same character as those I have cited—of fine, regal minds drowned like the cited—of fine, regal minds drowned like the royal Clarence, in a wine cask. I have seen a man, with a heart as fine and tender as a woman's, and a genias and scholarship which, I think, would be considered rare in the highest circles in England, lying drunk and insensible in a tavern, his pockets drained to their last farthing, and his Apollo lips pressed upon the dust."

THE AMERICAN OPERATIONS AT SEBASTOPOL. A letter dated Sebastopol, Crimes, October 23, says: "We are quite busy in raising the big ships, and I assure you it is hard work. We have raised eleven ships-of-the-line, and twenty-four smaller ships, such as frigates, earnest longing to once more enjoy our New England Sabbath. Another year will probably be required to accomplish the undertaking of the company.

HEAVY DANAGES AGAINST A RAILWAY COM-PANY.—In the case of Ogier vs. The Pennsylvania Railroad, tried in Chester County last week, the jury rendered a vertict in favor of Mrs. Ogier, the plaintiff, of $10,250. The cars, it will be remembered, came in contact with Dr. Ogier's carriage, and killed him on the spot. Mr. Bond, who was also injured, was awarded $500 damages.

UNENVIABLE ZEAL,-Francis Keeyes, Alexandria, Va., made the rope to hang John Brown, knit the noose with his own fingers, and forwarded it at his own expense. He should remember the fate of the inventor o the guillotine, and the gentleman who creeted the gallows to hang Mordecal. We wonder he did not petition Governor Wise for the privilege of hanging Brown.

A FLORIDAN ASSASSINATED AT HIS OWN FIRE-SIDE.—Mr. James M. Sweat, a resident of New River County, Florida, was instanly killed, some two weeks since, by a band of assassins, who discharged four loads of buck-shot into his body, as he sat by his own fire-side. No cause is known for this bloody butchery, nor is suspicion directed toward any one in particular.

THE LATE EDITORIAL DUELLESS DUEL .- We find the late editorial disagreement in this city "going the rounds" in this form: Mr. Geo. P. Buell, of the Cincinnati Times, challenged Mr. Murat Halstead, of the Commercial, on Monday, to fight a duel. Mr. Halstead refused to fight, on the score of eliquette. Droll way of putting it, is it not?

Two RAILWAY CONTRACTORS KILLING EACH OTHER IN A STREET FIGHT .- A bloody tragedy has been recently enacted in Bowling Green, Ky. Ragin and Cummings, two railroad con-tractors, had a street fight, which resulted in the immediate death of both parties. We did not learn the particulars, but understand the difficulty originated from some trifling cause.

RICHNESS OF THE NORTH CAROLINA COFFER MINES.—A company of gentlemen from Balti-more and New York passed through Portsmouth, Vs., recently, en route for the copper mines of Guilford, N.C. These mines have been in operation about six months, and are said to be perfectly successful. The ore amounts to about eighteen tuns per week.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT IN MISSISSIPPI .- D. J. Sheppard was arrested recently in New Orleans, charged by William D. Roy, Collector of the port of Vicksburg, Miss., with having, while acting as his clerk, embezzled $5,000 or $5,000, or upward, entrusted to him for safe keeping and distribution. Bail in the amount of $5,000 was required.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT TO A BORE.-The San Francisco Times of the 9th has the following: That humbug and intolerable newspaper bore, Stephen Massett, it is said, will make another effort to gull the people of this city to-night if it don't rain.

TERRIBLE RESULT OF DRUNKSNNESS.—A drunken German, at Lodi, N. Y., while his wife was trying to get him to bed, a few days ago, overthrew a lamp upon a trundle-bed, in which his child, aged five years, was sleeping, and the little fellow was burnt to death.

HOMICIDE IN MARYLAND .- A man named Watson was killed in St. Mary's County, Md., on Friday night last, by another man named Bragg, with whom he was on a spree. Bragg was arrested, and is now in jail.

Additional from Charlestown - More Excitement on hand—Virginia Stock Dying Mysteriously—The Cavalry Ordered Out.

CHARLESTOWN, VA., December 2.—Shortly after the execution of Brown, and while his body was being taken to the depot, great excitement was occasioned in the town by the arrival of a horseman, announcing that Wheat-land, the residence of George H. Turner, shot at Harper's Ferry, was on fire, and that it was extending to the farm-buildings.

Wm. F. Thurner, who was in town, had left home at ten o'clock. He said that several of the horses had died very suddenly, and also some sheep. It was supposed they had been poisoned, and it was intended to have their stomachs analyzed. The stock of Mr. Castleman and Mr. Myers, in the same neighborhood, had also died very mysteriously. The excite-ment was very great, and Colonel Davis had the Farquier Cavalry in readiness to go out and inquire into the truth about the fire.

About the Election of Speaker. Washington, December 3-12 M.—Nearly all the South American members of the House are now in conference. The probability is that they will not vote for the plurality reso-lution relative to the election of Speaker, but put forward their own candidate upon the suffrages of other members of the House. The Democrats will also probably agree not to vote for the plurality resolution, the design of many being to unite these two parties upon an American candidate. Over eighty members were present at the Republican Conference held this afternoon. Mr. Petit, of Indiana, presided, and Mr. Me-Phereon, of Pennsylvania, Secretary.

The discussion, which was a harmonious one, lasted one or two hours. Some of the most radical Republicans expressed their willinguess to vote for an American or anti-Le-compton Clerk if a Republican Speaker was elected. It was finally determined not to call an Opposition, or a straigthout Republican caucus, but that every member should go into the House and vote for his choice, as was done four years ago. E. Jay Morris, Millward, and other Northern Americans were present.

River News.

Pittsbung, December 3.—The river is sta-lonary, with eight feet four inches water in the cliannel, by the pier-mark. The weather is cold and cloudy.

LOUISVILLE, December 3-P. M.—The river was rising rapidly this forenoon, but slowly now, with seven feet nine inches in the canal and five feet nine inches on the falls. Snow, sleet and rain, intermixed, has been falling all day. Still stormy.

Sr. Louis, December 3-P. M.—River fallen two inches in the last twenty-four hours, and receding slowly. There is considerable ice running in the Upper Missippi, but none has reached here yet. The weather has moderated somewhat since morning, and since three P. M. snow has fallen pretty fast. It is still very cold, however, and none of the snow that fell night before last has yet melted; the sleighing even in the busiest thoroughfares of the city is capital.

Later from Nicaragua.

WARRINGTON, December S .- Private advices from Nicaragua represent everything quiet, with the exception of a fear of an invasion by General Walker.

President Martinez and the people have the greatest confidence in the friendly disposition of the United States, and the latter's determination to suppress fillibustering.

Much disappointment was expressed at the non-arrival of our Minister, Mr. Dimitry.

Some supposed that he would not leave Costa Rica before January. President Martinez admits that Mons. Belly had failed to fulfill his contract, but Commo-dore Vanderbilt's proposition to open the Transit Route does not meet with much favor.

The Body of John Brown.

BALTIMORE, December 3.—The body of Brown arrived in a special train, and will be taken by Mrs. Brown and friends, by express, direct to Albany. It is desired to avoid all public demonstrations, and the body will not be visible anywhere on the route to North Elba, where it will be deposited in the family burial ground. Mrs. Brown speaks in the highest terms of the kindness extended to her by the authorities of the State. She is, of course, in great distress, and has most favor-ably impressed all who have met with her, as a woman of fine feeling, and possessed of great affection for her husband.

Kansas News.

LEAVENWORTH, December 3 .- Hon. Abo Lincoln, of Illinois, arrived here to-day, and is now addressing one of the largest political assemblies that ever met in Kansas. The election for State officers takes place on Tuesday next. Much confidence is felt of an early admission into the Union under the Wyandotte Constitution.

Sympathy for John Brown. MONTENAL, December 3. - John Brown prayer-meetings were held here yesterday, and were largely attended. Dr. Howe, of Boston, was present.

INSANITY AND MURDER CAUSED BY FRATERNAL ADULTERY.—Frank S. Wright, who murdered his wife at Woodsville, N. H., a few days since, while crazy from the influence of rum, has been bound over for trial in April. He alleges that his brother had had illicit interalleges that his brother had had inject inter-course with his wife, which caused him to drink, and that her infidelity was the cause of the murder. This is indeed a revolting in-stance of human depravity, and reminds us of the unfortunate Monima in Otway's painful tragedy, except that she consented innocently to what this unfortunate creature seems to have granted with full consciousness of the enormity of her offense.

A NEAPOLITAN DANSEUSE ATTACKED IN TH A NEAPOLITAN DANSEUSE ATTACKED IN THE STREET.—M'lle Boschetti, the danseuse of the San Carlo Theater, says a Naples letter, has lately been the object of a faminine vendetta, originating in the Jealousy of a rival. She was attacked in the street, when walking to the theater, by several women in masks, who maltreated her. She was able to go on to the theater, however, and shortly after appeared on the stage, smid thunders of applause, a rumor of the attack having become known in the house.

SMOKE CONSUMING COAL COOKING STOVE!

THE ALLIGATOR!

Patented,

December_71 1858.

THIS STOVE HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE

At the public three seasons, and owing to its popularity and increased demand, we have been compelled to make two more sizes—having SIX sizes complete, suitable, from the smallest family up to the largest class boarding-house. The celebrity these stores have gained for themselves can not be too highly appreciated, as every family having them in use car truly testify.

Thanking the public for their generous support, it is our determination to supply the wants of the community with the benefits which a practical mechanical solucation can only supply.

The genial personnel—the broad, loving, human heart—of Washington Irving impressed alike all classes that knew him. Many a one was heard to speak, yesterday, of his gentleness of bearing, his kindly words to the suffering, his clear grey eyes, his sunny smile.

"Sir," said one old resident of frvington, who had greeted him almost daily for many years, "the poor of this vicinity have lost the best friend they ever had. There never was an applicant for relief at Sunnyside, whom Mr. Irving knew to be worthy, that went away empty
